

Meet Mohammed.

Mohammed was the primary caretaker for his sick single mother since he was eight years old. His much older brothers struggled with drug and alcohol addiction. Mohammed would pay the bills by finding back-breaking labor.

After his mother's death when Mohammed was 17, his older brother kicked him out, leaving him homeless. Even though he was living in the park, he managed to finish the 11th grade. He told a teacher about being homeless and the counselor connected him with ACH. After being at the Youth Emergency Shelter, he was able to move to the Morris Program and finish high school.

Mohammed is now living independently in an apartment and working a full-time job. He plans to pursue higher education in Psychology.

“ACH changed my life and gave me a place to sleep, food to eat, and a shower to use. I could finally see the light at the end of the tunnel.” - Mohammed

ACH Wedgwood Campus

At our Wedgwood Residential Campus, kids enjoy a private park and can attend local schools while learning to heal from their trauma. The home-like setting is what kids healing from trauma deserve.

The Morris program offers safe, stable, and nurturing homes for teens ages 14-17 who are unable to live with their families. Basic and therapeutic services assist youth in succeeding in a family foster care placement, a family reunification, a move to an independent living program, or a transition to independence.

Our Behavioral Care program includes therapeutic residential services for ages 4-12 with moderate to severe behavioral challenges. Safe and structured residential care teaches adaptive behaviors, supports successful child development, and promotes family reunification where possible.

The Summit program is a specialized urgent mental health care program in a residential setting that allows children and their families to receive relief of symptoms and therapeutic interventions that prevent psychiatric hospitalization. Our Turning Point program is a similar program for foster care youth.
