We help those caring for others

For the past 44 years, Arquilla Walker has raised nine children, eight of them from the same family, and none of them related to her by blood. Along the way, Ms. Walker sacrificed a marriage, a career, and an engagement. Now at 61 years old, the pressures of being the sole provider of three children are continuing to be felt.

“It’s different this time because I had never had anyone say to me, ‘We’re here for you.’”

Today, Arquilla is finally getting the help she urgently needs through Kinship Connections. This ACH program helps relatives or close family friends care for children who aren’t safe living with their parents. We help with new furniture for the baby’s bedroom, accessing community resources, or having someone be there when her child is struggling with a mental health crisis. For the first time in her life, Arquilla knows she has a team that has her back whenever life’s challenges turn up.

Listen to Arquilla (episode 8) and others who have found the inspiration to push forward and overcome the challenges of their lives in our award-winning podcast, Counting on Us.
